Referring to FIG. 1, a conventional sensing circuit for sensing an object 10 is shown. The sensing circuit 10 includes a pair of resistors R1 and R2. The sensing circuit 10 further includes a voltage source V.sub.cc and a reference voltage V.sub.ref. The voltage source V.sub.cc is coupled to a common electrode of the pair of resistors R1 and R2. The reference voltage V.sub.ref is coupled to a first end of the resistor R2. The other end of the resistor R1 is coupled to a ground line. The voltage source V.sub.cc and the reference voltage V.sub.ref are coupled to a same power supply source V.sub.dd. The first end of the resistor R2 is coupled to the common electrode through a diode. The diode is coupled to the ground line through a resistor R3. The voltage of the common electrode is delivered to a head of a computer through a transducer. The voltage of the common electrode is subject to one of two states.
