The action RPG “Elden Ring”, an MMORPG that has already received the “Outstanding Achievement in Social Game” at the Gamers Assembly 2017, was developed by the development team, JAST Co., Ltd., in collaboration with mobile game developers, The Behemoth Interactive. Based on the popular myth, “The Elden Ring”, an RPG with variety of battles that deeply involve the imagination of players, is a game that is overflowing with excitement thanks to a deep and intricate storyline, exquisite graphics and sound, and a vast world that offers a large variety of quests. The name of the game, “Elden Ring”, is born from the words “dream” and “ring”, and is a phrase that denotes the wish to achieve the impossible, and the desire to become a victorious hero. Full of Excitement A vast world where open fields with a variety of situations and huge dungeons with complex and three-dimensional designs are seamlessly connected. As you explore, the joy of discovering unknown and overwhelming threats await you, leading to a high sense of accomplishment. Create your Own Character In addition to customizing the appearance of your character, you can freely combine the weapons, armor, and magic that you equip. You can develop your character according to your play style, such as increasing your muscle strength to become a strong warrior, or mastering magic. An Epic Drama Born from a Myth A multilayered story told in fragments. An epic drama in which the various thoughts of the characters intersect in the Lands Between. Unique Online Play that Loosely Connects You to Others In addition to multiplayer, where you can directly connect with other players and travel together, the game supports a unique asynchronous online element that allows you to feel the presence of others. ABOUT THE DEVELOPERS, JAST Co., Ltd. JAST Co., Ltd. is a well-known digital game development company, founded in 1997. Official announcement for now!

We've just announced a specialised game plan for developing Nobilis

Even if we hadn't been able to announce it ahead of time, we would have made it clear when the game was released. Ever since the character design and screenshots were first released, we have been aiming to give players a game that is distinct from other fantasy games. There were also a lot of questions asked about the direction the game will take until September, but we are also very eager to finally give a more clear view to what we want to deliver as an end result.

The game is highly anticipated and this is simply another measure that will show our support for the Nobilis community. Our developers continuously put in effort into supporting the Nobilis community, so we can also recognize ourselves as being part of Nobilis development.

KEY FEATURES

- An entirely new world. Dominate the fearsome monsters and the unskilled warriors!

The world of Nobilis is all new. The world, which you visit during a single game, is a type of world that combines the elements of the Eastern and Western worlds into a single world.

In addition to linear maps, there are also lots of areas, such as large dungeons, which are vast and complicated.

Roaming around with a group of up to four different characters and challenging distant dungeons with special skills and strategies are exciting new experiences that you cannot find in other fantasy games.

A combination of such land that wants to introduce you to the world of Nobilis and lush graphics, which will appeal to all time fantasy fans.

Unprecedented character customization! Everything can be upgraded.

Upgrades are based on your stats and battlefield attacks, and the upgraded stats increase the damage you deal to enemies. You can truly become stronger by upgrading your stats from the start. Coming soon Bases of the game are a spellcaster class and an action/adventure class. The differences in base selection are not only class differences, but also elemental differences. Bases: Dragoon: The spellcaster class that has the ability to harness the power of projectiles. Adventurer: The action/adventure class that has the ability to harness the power of magic and the ability to move. The class that is selected as the base will become your base class. Action Feature: Combat: Activation items that are used when in battle. Items: Items that can be equipped to your character and can be used in battle. Action Features that can be assigned to your base class will be in the shape of equipment. You can see in the game the location, number, effect, etc. of your action features in the base class. Super Action Features: Magical Circle: A magical circle that can be formed to activate the power of magic. Bases: Spellcasters:

Dragoon/Elden: The spell caster is an Elden and is the class that has the power of projectiles.

Bases: Adventurers: Dragoon/Elden: The action/adventure character is an Elden and is the class that has the power of magic and the ability to move. The relevant bases of the action/adventure character will be selected for that class. In order to activate the relevant base class, you need to select the base class and enter the action feature in order to use the action feature. On the other hand, in order to activate the base class of the spellcaster, you need to select the base class and activate the relevant action features to use the action features. After you have formed the spellcaster and the action/adventure character, there will be a form for the relevant action feature. Action Features: The battle action feature allows you to use the action feature that was activated in the base class. The awakening action feature allows you to use the action feature that was activated in the base class. The summoning action feature allows you to use the action feature that was activated in the base class. By activating the relevant action features, even when you have already formed your base class, the action feature will be activated and be available for battle. In addition

X-ray imaging technology has advanced significantly in recent years and now includes full field digital radiography, dual energy imaging, dual mode imaging, and simultaneous imaging as well as many other advances that are known to those skilled in the art. Each new development in this area offers new diagnostic opportunities as well as increased accessibility to previously inaccessible areas that were difficult to image before. Other advances have made it possible to image the whole body, in certain instances, from the feet up. Medical or surgical procedures have also become more complex than in the past, in some instances, making it difficult for the physician or surgeon to locate abnormalities or areas of concern when performing a procedure. In some cases, areas of abnormality are surrounded by normal tissue and are difficult to identify. Other medical problems involve undesired areas that are adjacent to or are in close proximity to areas of interest. In such cases, it may be desirable to image the area of interest without the interference or effect of the area of interest. Thus, many other needs have arisen for providing accurate and effective imaging of anatomical structures or regions, and more particularly, for providing effective imaging of anatomical structures or regions in conjunction with a surgical or other medical procedure. Not only has the imaging of anatomical regions or structures become more prevalent, but so has the use of medical probes or tools for the treatment or diagnosis of a patient. For example, medical instruments such as mechanical screwdrivers, drills, pins, needles and other tools may be used to provide such treatment or diagnosis, either locally or across a larger area of the anatomy. Additionally, probes such as electrical, magnetic, thermal, mechanical, and magnetic resonance are well known and, for example, are used to interrogate anatomical structure for the purposes of treatment, or diagnosis. In this regard, a conventional, commercially available spring backed probe includes a spring that is deflected within its elastic limit when pressed against a patient's skin and that returns to its relaxed position after the pressure of the spring is removed. Spring backed probes are used for a number of different purposes, including the location of muscles, nerves, anatomical structures and regions of the body, as well as to locate an area of high or low pressure, such as on the abdomen, where an undetected lesion may be present and where the tissue pressure may be at a level that is different from the normal level. While the usefulness of spring backed probes is known, a number of improvements
